Good morning Mr. Nizich and Mr. Tibbles,

Now that Ms. Stapleton has decided to vacate her position, I would like to ask that you reconsider me for a press staff position within the Governor's office.

Each of you met with me several months ago and I remain fully confident that I am highly qualified to perform any and all necessary duties in the public affairs arena for Governor Palin.

You should still have my letter of interest, resume and brief portfolio in your possession for additional review.

Respectfully,

Roger W. Wetherell

1. WASTE INDUSTRY LOOKS TO CONGRESS TO CLOSE RAIL LOOPHOLE

   Under the guidance of Sen. Frank Lautenberg (D-NJ), the waste industry awaits Congressional lawmakers to move legislation that will close a loophole in federal transportation law that allows rail waste operations to avoid environmental requirements that apply to everyone else. His measure passed the Senate last month but some fear that it does not go far enough, especially with regard to the processing of construction and demolition debris stored on rail-based waste sites. There is further concern that facilities might still win particular exemptions from state and local environmental regulations. The House Transportation & Infrastructure Committee is expected to back a strict companion version of Lautenberg's original bill...Read More »

2. CHICAGO CONSIDERS PRIVATIZING RECYCLING AND TRANSFER STATIONS

   The city of Chicago is considering privatizing via long-term lease the city's three recycling and transfer facilities. Those facilities are currently operated under a five-year, $78.8 million contract held by Allied Waste Transportation. Proceeds from the waste transfer lease could be used to finance the otherwise cost-prohibitive switch to suburban-style, curbside recycling citywide. The plan would be to expand that program to 211 thousand households from the 80 thousand currently being served...Read More »

3. SPSA INTENDS TO STOP ACCEPTING OUT-OF-STATE WASTE NEXT YEAR

   Virginia's Southeastern Public Service Authority (SPSA) plans to stop accepting out-of-state waste by next year. Those wastes emanate mainly from New York and North Carolina and account for about $1 million in revenues. It has been a controversial issue ever since one of its eight members, the City of Chesapeake sued on those grounds to break its contract with the Authority. Last year, SPSA was in negotiations with Covanta to import 2,500 tons per day into Portsmouth, but that deal later collapsed under withering opposition. However, the recent Supreme Court decision on Oneida-Herkimer has given the agency more options including the ability to exert flow controls which might direct all wastes through SPSA facilities rather than to those of private waste firms...Read More »

4. SEN. LIEBERMAN CONFIDENT OF A CAP-AND-TRADE LAW IN CURRENT SESSION

Senator Joseph Lieberman (D-CT) says that Congress is close to passing legislation during the current session that would establish a federal cap-and-trade program for controlling greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions in the United States. "I believe there is a substantial and increasing likelihood that both the Senate and the House will, by the end of next year, pass legislation mandating cuts in U.S. greenhouse gas emissions," the senator said during the World Environment Center's Washington Sustainability Forum in Washington, D.C. He will need more than 60 votes to override a threatened veto by President Bush...Read More »

5. OHIOEPA IS URGING COUNTYWIDE LANDFILL TO MITIGATE SPREAD OF FIRE

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency is urging the Countywide Recycling and Disposal Facility in Stark County to stop utilizing a 13-acre portion of the 6,000 ton per day, 258-acre landfill deemed to be on fire. OhioEPA wants the landfill owner Republic Services to construct a firebreak and take other agency approved measures to halt the migration of fires caused by aluminum chemical reactions...Read More »

Sonoco Products Co., the world's largest maker of rigid paperboard containers, acquired the fiber containers and industrial plastic carriers assets of Caraustar Industries Inc. The acquisition includes six plants that employ 260 people whom make recycled paperboard containers and plastic cores, thread carriers and other packaging. Taken together, they generate about $50 million in annual sales...Read More »

7. WCA WASTE MAKES ACQUISITIONS IN ALABAMA, NORTH CAROLINA, OKLAHOMA AND TEXAS

WCA Waste Corp. has made five "tuck-in" acquisitions in Alabama, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Texas. Among them are Waste Pro Services, LLC of Houston which operates 17 routes, two tuck-in acquisitions in North Carolina, with 11 routes in Greensboro and four in Raleigh, Big Red Containers, located in Oklahoma, and Roll-Off Rentals in Huntsville, Alabama. "This allows us to increase route destiny and internalize the volume which had not previously been taken to one of our landfills," said Tom Fatjo, chairman of WCA...Read More »

Power company PPL Corp. has teamed up with the Greater Lebanon Refuse Authority and opened a renewable energy facility that will use captured methane to create enough fuel to power 2,500 homes. PPL's PPL Renewable Energy unit plans to invest more than $100 million in additional renewable energy projects in the next five years. The unit has developed renewable energy projects that total more than fifteen megawatts of generation. These include solar panel installations and landfill gas projects in Pennsylvania and New Jersey...Read More »

In a twist of fate, Connecticut carting company Automated Waste Disposal, owned by James Galante who has been indicted in an ongoing mob corruption and racketeering scam, is now suing 19 area business and a rival firm for poaching his customers. Automated Waste charges that the businesses are breaching their contracts while Mid-Hudson Waste of Mahopac is engaging in "tortious interference" by encouraging them to do so. The 19 business acting as one consolidated defendant filed a motion to dismiss on the grounds of the illegal business practices by the plaintiff...Read More »

Veolia Environmental Services won a 10-year contract to operate a gasification unit at Dow Corning's Midland, Michigan chemical plant. The gasification process will convert hazardous chlorinated organic liquids produced at the Dow Corning plant into two usable products – aqueous hydrochloric acid (HCL) and synthetic natural gas (Syngas). It removes the need to transport for offsite disposal and avoids the emissions of greenhouse gases. "This is a very cutting-edge process. It is the first time that the gasification process will be used commercially to recycle chlorinated organic liquids in the US," said Philippe Martin, President and CEO of Veolia ES Technical Solutions...Read More »

American Electric Power has agreed to settle a long-running federal lawsuit by agreeing to pay a $4.6 billion fine, pay a $15 million penalty, and spend $60 million on projects to mitigate the adverse effects of its past excess emissions. The record settlement was announced today by the Department of Justice and the Environmental Protection Agency. The lawsuit was originally filed in 1999. Under the Clean Air Act, any substantial modification of an existing power generation plant had to include new technology to cut emissions. But under the Bush Administration, the EPA attempted to roll back that requirement under certain circumstances. In March 2006, a federal appeals court struck down the EPA's exemption...Read More »

Hi Dan,

I am still Outside. Back Thursday.......lunch soon?

I couldn't help noticing the following and thought of your comment that the Governor's Press Conference On Fires was just Grandstanding and just anti union junk prompted by Todd Palin. I think you need to find that cactus I gave you. We have a serious problem on the slope.The Gov pointed it out and you called it Grandstanding. Are you willing to admit you might have been, indeed were, wrong? Too bad BP obviously though it was grandstanding, too? If these turbines were on the next flight you take with Alaska Airlines, you would be very upset.....this is why her alert was important. Using the pulpit is what leaders do.....and in this case, it was certainly justified.

Damage from the fire itself was light, but the turbine bearings or other parts might need work that could keep the huge engine shut down for up to two weeks, crimping oil production by as much as 30,000 barrels a day, Beaudo said.

Cheers,

Jeff L

Dear Governor Palin,
This again is not acceptable Please read Commissioner Bishop's directive below. It is merely a smoke screen by your Labor Commissioner. One week to re-submit! Who does he think he is kidding?

When can we expect a new Commissioner for the Department of Labor and Workforce Development that represents all Alaskans instead of a small minority that belongs to labor unions. You talk about ethics and transparancy in State government. How about getting your own administration in order? Why do we have to sue our own government for fair and equitable treatment. I would suggest you lay off the legislative branch and concentrate on getting the executive branch cleaned up.
Thank you,

Subject: Final opportunity to resubmit

Based on numerous comments from State Training and Employment Program (STEP) grant applicants who failed to submit proposals that fully conformed with the August 6, 2007 Request for Grant Applications (RGA), and in order to provide the largest number of potential grantees to serve the Alaska public, the Department, after consultation with the Attorney General's office, has decided to allow applicant's whose proposals were deemed non-responsive a FINAL opportunity to correct and resubmit their proposals. Corrections will be limited to remedying technical inaccuracies only.

This opportunity to correct your proposal is due in part to the fact the STEP grant application process requirements were significantly changed as a result of a lawsuit filed in the Superior Court (Associated Builders and Contractors, Alaska Chapter vs. State of Alaska, Department of Labor, Case No. 3AN-06-6918 CI), where grant making process and procedures used by the Department were called into question. Accordingly, all grant applicants previously deemed "non-responsive" from the August RGA based on technical inaccuracies are being given one week to cure the technical infirmities in their previously submitted grant proposals to the August RGA. The deadline for corrected proposals to be received by the Department is 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, October 16.

If it is your intent to resubmit a corrected proposal, you or another representative of the applicant organization must participate in a MANDATORY teleconference hosted by Division of Business Partnerships to go over requirements of the RGA and respond to questions on resubmissions. You must attend (either in person or via teleconference) this session to be held on Friday, October 12, 2007 at 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., at the Division of Business Partnerships' 2nd floor conference room, 1016 W. 6th Street, Suite 205, Anchorage, Alaska, 99501, or call-in number, 1-800-315-6338, Code 4647.

Division staff will contact each of you to provide details of the FINAL re-submission process.

Sincerely,
Clark Bishop
Commissioner
Department of Labor and Workforce Development

I may applying for unemployment insurance and have learned that Alaska\'s rate for such payments is among the lowest of the states at only $248/week.

This is unconscionable, given the state\'s wealth: ALTHOUGH TO MY UNDERSTANDING THAT IS LARGELY IRREVELANT as the lion\'s share of the funding actually comes from the federal government.

I have been pleased (and surprised, I must admit) by your generally populist alpproach to governing....you do not appear to be in the usual vein of Republicans, which is quite consistent with their hard won reputation of everything for the rich, powerful and wealthy and a hearty \"good luck to you\" for the bulk of the population.

Will you introduce a bill to bring Alaska\'s UI payments up to date? Keep in mind, too, that these payments are very important to rural families who may be only seasonably employed and in fact cannot find employmentexcept during the Summer.

Subject: Re: AJC Supreme Court Nominees

Upon announcement of the names, emails and phone calls started coming in about the small pallet of names from the AJC for this critical position.

Privileged or Personal Material Redacted

We only have 45 days, so while she hasn't had a chance to review any of the candidates yet, I'd like to her to know Privileged or Personal Material Redacted Privileged or Personal Material R

Your thoughts?

Subject: AJC Supreme Court Nominees

Hot off the press yet not public yet are the Supreme Court Nominees:

Joel H. Bolger: Judge Bolger is 52 years old, has been an Alaska resident for 26½ years, and has practiced law for 28½ years. He graduated from the University of Iowa College of Law in 1978, and is currently a superior court judge in Kodiak.

Morgan Christen: Judge Christen is 45 years old, has been an Alaska resident for 21 years, and has practiced law for 21 years. She graduated from Golden Gate University School of Law in 1986, and is currently a superior court judge in Anchorage.

Andy Harrington: Mr. Harrington is 51 years old, has been an Alaska resident for 27 years, and has practiced law for 26 years. He graduated from Harvard Law School in 1980, and is currently Executive Director of Alaska Legal Services in Fairbanks.

Daniel E. Winfree: Mr. Winfree is 54 years old, has been an Alaska resident for 54 years, and has practiced law for 25 years. He graduated from the University of California, Berkeley Boalt Hall School of Law in 1981, and is currently the Executive Director/General Counsel for the Greater Fairbanks Community Hospital Foundation, Inc.

They conducted 13 interviews to come up with four. I have detailed phone notes on all four and have started getting feelers out on the candidates.

I have asked Janice to schedule interview times no later Monday, Nov 19th. Our 45 day clock will run out on Nov 23rd or 24th, depending on when the Council issues their press release. Shall we do these in person or schedule them over the phone?

i have a tip for you and remained anonomys for various reasons. there is wind of investigators looking in the K-Beach area for a female under-the-table tattoo artist. It seems that the investigators know she is about 28yrs old, has been doing tattoos for about 6 mos, and has done MANY on minors, one that they know of is a dragon tattoo. The parts that i can help you with is her name: Naomi Aurora Green, address: 508 Cedar Ave. #4 in Kenai, Alaska, phone numbers: 252-1402 or 335-0079. Please stop her before she tattoos one of my sisters and gets her infected!!!

The wolf situation and the congressman with the televised opion can be put in there place and quieted quickly if we gift them with all of our excess wolves. I also think they should be shipped to California on the new Alaska Airlines Disney Plane as it represents both states. (Working together to solve problems, etc.) Congressman Miller of California seems very interested in our treatment of wolves. I see this as very strange behavior as he stands there in the heat on pavement with a wolf on a huge chain for his press conference convenience. Can we please send these excess wolves to anyone that wishes to try and tell us how to run our wildlife program. Maybe the next time an issue comes up they will be to busy feeding the wolves to interfer. Rinda Howell/Wrangell
